PRESS RELEASE
For immediate release

On 30th May 2014 from 6pm, nineteen lens based artists will unveil the IMG19 exhibition at the Lanchester Gallery in Coventry. The collective was created by current third year BA students from the acclaimed Photography course at Coventry University. The exhibition aims to address photographic issues in the post-digital era.

Photography, considered a modern art form, is no longer bound by the paper's edge; the IMG19 exhibition will evidence this as it showcases a variety of forms which photography can take in contemporary practice. The featured artists use photography as a medium to raise awareness on important social demographics and engage with current debates such as the relation between photography, history, memory and space.

This exhibition is a must see for anyone interested in social documentary, digital media, and cutting-edge photography.

The gallery will be open daily until Thursday 5th June.

IMG19 features new works by Rachel Appleby, Ioana Bultoc, Heidi Culverwell, Alex Edwards, Theo Ellison, Kate Green, Lee Hassall, Talha Hassan, Joseph Kesisoglou, Alice Martin-Smith, Alex Mason, Tania Merriman, Sophie Moet, Melissa Santos, Melissa, Stapleton, Lauren Thatcher, Caroline Walker and Hollie Woodward
